
MEMORY LAWS

CRIMINALIZING HISTORICAL NARRATIVES

Friday, October 27, 2017

1:30pm-1:45pm, Welcome, Elazar Barkan, Columbia University

1:45pm-4:00pm, The Politics of History: Eastern Europe and the “Duty to Remember”

Jan Gross, Princeton University

Eva Clarita Pettai, University of Jena

Nikolay Kopolov, Emory University

Tarik Amar, Columbia University

Chair: TBD

4:15pm-5:45pm, Memory Laws and Freedom of Expression: Comparative Legal Perspectives

Robert Kahn, University of St. Thomas School of Law

Jonathan Bush, Columbia Law School

Chair: Horst Fischer, Leiden University and Columbia University

6:15pm, Reception

Saturday, October 28, 2017

9:00am-11:00am, Criminalizing History in Rwanda, Latin America, and Japan

Lars Waldorf, York Law School, University of York

Victoria Sanford, CUNY Graduate Center

Yukiko Koga, Hunter College

Chair: Andy Nathan, Columbia University

11:15am-1:15pm, History and Denialism in the Middle East

Yifat Gutman, Ben Gurion University

Müge Göçek, University of Michigan

Omer Bartov, Brown University

Chair: Khatchig Mouradian, Columbia University

1:15pm-2:15pm, Lunch

2:15pm-4:15pm, Present Pasts: Historical Violence and Contemporary Legal Narratives

Stephanie Golob, Baruch College-CUNY Graduate Center

Henry Rousso, French National Center for Scientific Research

Dubravka Stojanović, University of Belgrade

Chair: Daniel Levy, Stony Brook University

4:15-4:30-Concluding Remarks, Elazar Barkan, Columbia University